

VITA

Jennifer Clement Mobley
Associate Professor
East Texas Baptist University
Marshall Hall 103-G; 903-923-2095 (office)
jmobley@etbu.edu

EDUCATION

Ph.D. Experimental Psychology	University of Tennessee	2008
B.A. Psychology	Ouachita Baptist University	2002

TEACHING EXPERIENCE

Associate Professor	East Texas Baptist University	2019-Present
Assistant Professor	East Texas Baptist University	2017-2019
Assistant Professor	Howard Payne University	2010-2
Visiting Lecturer	McNeese State University	2009-2010
Online Instructor	University of Phoenix	2009-2010
Instructor	Institute for Reading Development	2009
Online Instructor	University of Tennessee	2008-2012
Instructor	Institute for Reading Development	2008
Instructor	Project GRAD, KAPS	2007
Graduate Teaching Associate	University of Tennessee	2004-2006

OTHER WORK EXPERIENCE

Thrive Mentor	East Texas Baptist University	2021-2023
Advisor	University of Tennessee	2005-2008

PRESENTATIONS AND PUBLICATIONS

Clement (Mobley), J. G. & Stone, C. (2023, April). Punked or punished?: A study examining pranks and revenge. Poster session presented at the Southwestern Psychological Association, Frisco, TX.

Clement (Mobley), J. G. & Deel, Jr., D. (2022, April). Punked?: Gender, pranks, and situational humor. Poster session presented at the Southwestern Psychological Association, Baton Rouge, LA.

Clement (Mobley), J. G. (2021, April). Pranks and creative achievement: No relation, but a gender difference. Virtual poster session presented at the Southwestern Psychological Association, San Antonio, TX.

Clement (Mobley), J. G. (2020, April). Pranks and creative achievement: No relation, but a gender difference. Poster accepted by the Southwestern Psychological Association, but postponed to 2021 for COVID-19.

Clement (Mobley), J. G., & Torres, R. (2019, April). Double take? Pranks and personality: A replication with extension. Poster session presented at the Southwestern Psychological Association, Albuquerque, NM.

May 2023

- Clement (Mobley), J. G. (2018, April). Excitement and sensation seeking: The relationship of personality and prank attitudes. Poster session presented at the Southwestern Psychological Association, Houston, TX.
- Clement (Mobley), J. G., Farar, L., & Vega, J. (2017, April). Are you pulling my leg? Pranks and creativity. Poster session presented at the Southwestern Psychological Association, San Antonio, TX.
- Clement, J. G., Ellington, R., Hardin, V., & Martinez, L. (2016, April). Individuals should go on pranking if only to satisfy their curiosity. Poster session presented at the Southwestern Psychological Association, Dallas, TX.
- Clement, J. G., Ellington, R., Hardin, V., & Martinez, L. (2015, April). Does this humor style look good on me?: Gender differences. Poster session presented at the Southwestern Psychological Association, Wichita, KS.
- Clement, J. G., Harmon, D., Ninedorf, N., Presbaugh, W., Sterling, J., & Taylor, D. (2014, April). If there's a prank, I want to be in control of it. Poster session presented at the Southwestern Psychological Association, San Antonio, TX.
- Clement, J. G., Hinkle, K., Sarem, C., & Williams, S. (2013, April). To prank is human, to forgive (mostly) feminine? Poster session at the Southwestern Psychological Association, Fort Worth, TX.
- Clement, J. G., Burns, K., & Hinkle, K. (2012, April). To prank or not to prank? How state and private universities view pranks. Poster session at the Southwestern Psychological Association, Oklahoma City, OK.
- Clement, J.G., Berneking, N., Fisher, J., Gholson, L., Lawless, L., & Rutland, A. (2011, April). Prank time? Gender differences in the phenomenology of pranks. Poster session presented at the Southwestern Psychological Association, San Antonio, TX.
- Clement, J. G. (2010, April). Value similarity and attitude similarity: A meta-analytic review to determine the better predictor of satisfaction. Poster session presented at the Southwestern Psychological Association, Dallas, TX.
- Cannon, R., Lubar, J, Clement, J. G., Harvey, E., & Baldwin, D. (2008). Practical joking and cingulate cortex: A standardized low-resolution electromagnetic tomography (sLORETA) investigation of practical joking in the cerebral volume. Journal of Neurotherapy, 11, 51-63.
- Clement, J. (2008). Value similarity and its relationship to interpersonal relationship quality and identity: Perceptions of self, partner, and ideal partner. (Doctoral dissertation, University of Tennessee, Knoxville).
- Naydenova, I., Clement, J., & Jones, W. H. (2006, March). Self and other ratings of shyness. Poster session presented at the Southeastern Psychological Association, Atlanta, GA.
- Clement, J. & Jones, W. (2005, April). Differences in interpersonal perspectives associated with shyness. Poster session presented at the Southeastern Psychological Association, Nashville, TN.
- Lawler, K. A., & Clement, J. G. (2004, September). Faith, hardiness and health. Abstract accepted by the Society of Behavioral Medicine, Boston, MA.

May 2023

Clement, J. & Kamat, V. (2004, March). The relationship between family satisfaction and cynicism: A cross-cultural comparison. Poster session presented at the Southeastern Psychological Association, Atlanta, GA.

Clement, J. (2002, April). The effects of privacy on emotional state. Paper presented at Arkansas Symposium for Psychology Students, Arkadelphia, AR.

OTHER RELEVANT INFORMATION

Honors and Awards

Nominated for the Distinguished Professor Award, ETBU 2022

Psi Chi Appreciation Award, ETBU, 2017

Graduate Teaching Award, University of Tennessee, 2008

Professional Membership

Reviewer for the Southwestern Psychological Association, 2009-present

Member of Southwestern Psychological Association, 2009-present