2023-24 Dependency Override

Federal law assumes that the family has the primary responsibility for meeting the educational costs of students. Therefore, a student must meet certain federal criteria to qualify for financial aid as an independent student. If you do not meet one of the criteria listed on the FAFSA, you will be evaluated as a dependent student, meaning that your parents must provide income and asset information. If there are extraordinary circumstances that may warrant a re-evaluation of your dependency status, provide the following information so that the Financial Aid Office may make this determination.

A financial aid administrator may override a student’s dependency status because of “other unusual circumstances” that exist in the family, which cause parents to be unable to assist the dependent student with his/her educational expenses. “Unusual circumstances” may include, but are not limited to:

- Student has been a victim of domestic violence and no longer resides with parents;
- Student has been part of an abusive family environment (e.g., sexual, physical or mental abuse);
- Abandonment by parents (i.e., no contact for one year and no support for at least one year);
- Incarceration or institutionalization of both parents; or
- Death of both parents (or death of only parent in a single family household)

The following circumstances DO NOT merit a dependency override:

- Student demonstrates total self-sufficiency;
- Parents refuse to contribute to the student's education;
- Parents are unwilling to provide information on the FAFSA or for verification;
- Parents do not claim the student as a dependent for income tax purposes

The law also requires that the determination of a dependency override be made each award year. The determination of independence for one year does not mean that the student would automatically be an independent student in a subsequent award year. The financial aid administrator must re-affirm in subsequent years that the conditions for determining the student to be independent continue to exist.

➢ Please note that the determination by a financial aid administrator at another institution that a student should be considered independent is not binding on ETBU.

If you believe you have an unusual circumstance that would qualify you as independent from your parents, you are REQUIRED to complete the following:

1. Request for Change of Dependency (attached)
2. Personal Letter (attached) – A letter stating your extenuating circumstances, what has caused you to become independent from your parents, when you became independent and how you have provided for your own necessities (shelter, food, clothing, transportation, medical care, etc.).
3. Professional Letter – A letter on letterhead from a guidance counselor, teacher, coach, physician, social worker, clergy, or other individuals who have been involved in the circumstances in a professional capacity. All letters need to include a telephone number and address where the individual can be reached for follow-up questions.
4. Reference Letters (attached) – Two reference letters from third parties (friend, aunt, uncle, siblings, grandparents, etc.) who personally have knowledge of your situation and who can verify your circumstances.
5. Signed copies of your 2021 and 2022 federal tax returns. If a tax return was not filed, submit a statement of non-filing from the IRS.

All of the required information must be received before an evaluation can be determined.
